

WEEKLY CHRONICLE

This is a difficult time for us all, made more difficult because we can't participate in some of the activities that so often bring us comfort.

We offer this prayer for your use during the COVID-19 pandemic, and hope that it will be of help.

Eternal One,
You have blessed us with the gift of life,
and we give you thanks for each new day.
Guide us to use our days wisely and well.

In this time of trouble, ease our worries
and give us patience.
Make us ever stronger in faith and in
hope,
trusting you to uphold us in this life and the next.
Fill our hearts with love for others,
and let unselfish kindness shine in all that we do.

Grant your healing to the sick;
make them whole and calm their fears.
Give peace to the dying, surrounding them with light and love.
Comfort those who mourn, those who are anxious or lonely.

Protect the most vulnerable among us.
Protect our families, our neighbors and friends.

Help us to remember that we are all connected in love, even though we are physically apart.

Protect those who serve, and guide their hands and hearts: Nurses, Doctors and Housekeepers, Dining services,
Administrators and Activities Staff.
We give thanks for them all, and know that you cherish each one.

To you we lift up all these prayers,
together with the prayers spoken only in our hearts.

With faith in your love and mercy, we are already giving thanks.

Amen

Dog Lovers: Caught Red Pawed

You can't blame a dog for trying—and certainly not when they sound super cute. "My significant other and I had been trying to teach our dog to make less of a mess in our house—specifically, to not pull toilet paper off the roll". "We weren't sure we'd been making any headway until one day we came home to find that while we'd been out, about two feet of toilet paper had been unrolled...and then somehow rolled back up sloppily. All I can imagine is her playing with it happily, hearing us at the door, thinking, 'Oh, crap!' and trying to fix her mess. It was actually pretty impressive."

Cat Lovers: Just Kitten Around

Kittens and puppies are playful—it's just in their nature. And apparently, so is playing pranks on their siblings. "My biggest female cat (nine to 10 pounds) likes to sit on the side of the full bathtub inside the shower curtain." My littlest tiny female cat (four pounds) runs from across the house, slides around the corner into the bathroom, shoves the big female into the tub through the shower curtain and takes off like a shot back to the other side of the house. She never knew what hit her."
